Reflections makes funding request for Shelter Pods

by Niki Luymes

On August 16 the Edson Town Council met to discuss the matters of the town. One of the main topics discussed was an update from Reflections and Shelter Pods programs.

Treasurer of Reflections Anne Auriat, Reflections Chair Debbie Brazier, and Primary Care Network Social Worker and Reflections board member Taylor O'Brian provided the updates and submitted a request for funding for the remainder of the year and for 2023.

Reflection's goal is to assist individuals in the community with day-to-day needs. Their nutrition program provides many at-risk community members with proper nutrition. By providing meals, hygiene products, washroom and shower facilities in a safe comfortable environment, they hope to assist clients in achieving a more meaningful life.

There are two main parts of the work Reflections completes: the day-to-day drop-in program and Emergency Shelter Pod Program.

The current programs are funded by donations and grants. Reflections' current requests from the town include help with the expense for providing security at the Shelter Pods and assistance with development of future plans for caring for the homeless and mental health population who reside in the community.

A more comprehensive, yet sustainable, strategy to address the needs of the at-risk individuals in the community needs to be developed. Councillor Gean Chouinard asked, "Can you give me more details on what you mean by security? I thought it was cameras? Do we have in-person as well?"

Auriat responded that there are cameras and locks, but in-person security is able to identify offenders quicker, respond appropriately, and assist those using the pods if they get locked out, or have a similar issue. "What we found is that security paid for itself tenfold. There have definitely been less calls and complaints about individuals at the pods."

Previously, the security was paid for by a government grant that has since finished. "So it is very expensive," said Auriat, "When we did it for the seven to eight hours a night, seven days a week, it came to around $9,000 for the year. Since the grant was finished in May, we thought it was important to continue with that, but we cut it down so it's revolving hours." Basic monthly expenses are currently about $5,000 plus security costs of $5,000 totaling $10,000.

Mayor Kevin Zahara said, "I think security has been a really big asset down there for sure. The calls I was getting last fall dissipated quite quickly after security was on site."

Zahara also asked if the pods were achieving the goals that were set a year and a half ago. "I think it is definitely helping," responded O'Brian. "I know the winter prior to the pods opening up there were three individuals who died from hypothermia in the winter. The whole point of the pods are essentially just to keep people alive, especially over the winter. So we haven't had any deaths since they opened up."

Councillor Peter Taylor addressed the list of requests the group presented. "It's a significant ask, and an ongoing ask that I struggle with. But I also understand that we have security needs. So I want to address that too, while being fiscally responsible on our end."

some free snacks to enjoy.

All of the booths were donated and sponsored by local businesses. The games included classic carnival activities such as ring toss, duck fishing, and darts. Each booth featured unique prizes so that kids could amass quite a collection of goodies.

The Edson Recycling Depot was also on hand running a birdhouse making booth. The event spanned the front lawn and filled the inside of the Red Brick School House. Once kids were done with the games on the lawn, they could go inside to find the snacks, crafts, and enjoy a tour of the museum rooms.

The whole event was planned and hosted by employees and volunteers from the Red Brick Arts Centre and Museum.

The event mostly serves to facilitate community, while also reminding residents of the Red Brick

School House's existence. "We just want everyone to know that we're here, and we also want to do something for the kids in the Edson area," said Paige Ekdahl, a summer student with the Red Brick and co-planner of the event. The event is expected to return next August.

RCMP respond to releasing of Alberta Police Service Deployment Model report

by Deputy Commissioner Curtis Zablocki
Commanding Officer of the Alberta RCMP

Earlier today (Aug. 16), I learned that the Government of Alberta would be releasing the Alberta Police Service Deployment Model report. The proposed framework appears to be very similar to the current model of the Alberta RCMP.

The Alberta RCMP is future-focussed and flexible, changing as the safety and security needs of Albertans change. Modernizing our force, leveraging technology and finding new ways of delivering our services more efficiently, combined with collaboration and input from our partners on all levels, drives how we adapt to the needs of the citizens we serve, and respond to modern-day threats and social factors within the province. The Community Safety and Well-being Branch that was stood up earlier in the year is just one example of how we are constantly adjusting our service to meet the demands of Albertans.

The Alberta RCMP have always been willing to work alongside the Government of Alberta to ensure transparency and accountability in our service delivery. Our budget and staffing levels are determined by the Government of Alberta, the provincial policing priorities are developed with their oversight and approval, and we report on strategic and budget performance measurements on a regular basis.

Open communication and consultations with community leaders; county and municipal governments; chiefs and councils; the Alberta Municipalities Association; the Rural Municipalities of Alberta Association; the Interim Police Advisory Board and Albertans have positioned the Alberta RCMP to continue responding and evolving as a police service. I am grateful for our continued ability to collaborate and work together to address the needs of communities and citizens.

Our employees are skilled police professionals, trained to the highest standard in Canada, based on over a century of rural policing lessons. In addition to these frontline policing skills, our specialized services – including units such as Police Dog Services, Forensic Identification, and Emergency Response Teams – are leaders in their fields, know the geographical realities of Alberta, and are strategically positioned throughout the province.

Over the next few days the Alberta RCMP team will be reviewing and analysing the report in depth.

Editor's note: Alberta Municipalities said it will look at the government's report [now released] to see if principles found there align with its own - which includes, local input and consultation, police governance and oversight, police service levels, and cost to municipalities.

"Fundamentally, we believe the creation of an Alberta provincial police service should be driven by the real public safety needs of the communities it will serve, rather than by political motivations," the statement read.

NDP Justice Critic Irfan Sabir stated, "Alberta can invest in better policing without blowing up the RCMP. Also, the UCP should not be able to dismantle the RCMP while under investigation by the RCMP."

School / Playground Zone Changes

In January, Town Council passed Bylaw 2273, which set the new active times for Playground Zones in the Town of Edson.

Playground zones are now in effect from 7:30 am to 9:00 pm, 7 days a week, year-round.

New signage is being posted over the next few weeks, starting with Phase 1, which updates all former school zones to the new playground zones as part of the harmonization project.

While signage is being erected, the focus will be on education on the new hours and new zones, as opposed to enforcement. The goal is to allow everyone time to adjust to the changes with enforcement going into effect as the new school year commences.

It's time to work together to stop elder abuse

by Josephine Pon, Minister of Seniors and Housing

Seniors built this province, and they continue to serve as pillars in our communities. They are the parents, grandparents, friends, neighbours, colleagues, volunteers, wisdom-granters and storytellers who play indispensable roles in our lives. Seniors should be cherished members of our families and communities but, sadly, that is not always the case.

Elder abuse is a serious issue in our province. It is estimated one in 10 Alberta seniors is a victim of elder abuse, but any number is too many. It breaks my heart to know there are seniors who are prey to abuse that can be financial, sexual, physical or emotional in nature. Unfortunately, the COVID-19 pandemic has made a difficult situation worse by increasing seniors' risk factors for abuse, such as social isolation.

It has never been more important to put a stop to elder abuse. This is why Alberta's government has created a new plan, A Collective Approach: Alberta's strategy for preventing and addressing elder abuse.

A Collective Approach outlines how we can all work together over the next five years to create a safer future for our seniors. It focuses on increased awareness, enhanced training for service providers, coordinated community response, strengthened protective laws and policies, and improved data sharing and collecting. The new strategy also includes an updated definition of elder abuse that will be consistently applied across the family violence prevention network.

This new strategy recognizes that solutions to elder abuse are best created at the community level. Communities are familiar with the specific challenges that face their seniors. They are in an ideal position to identify gaps and implement solutions.

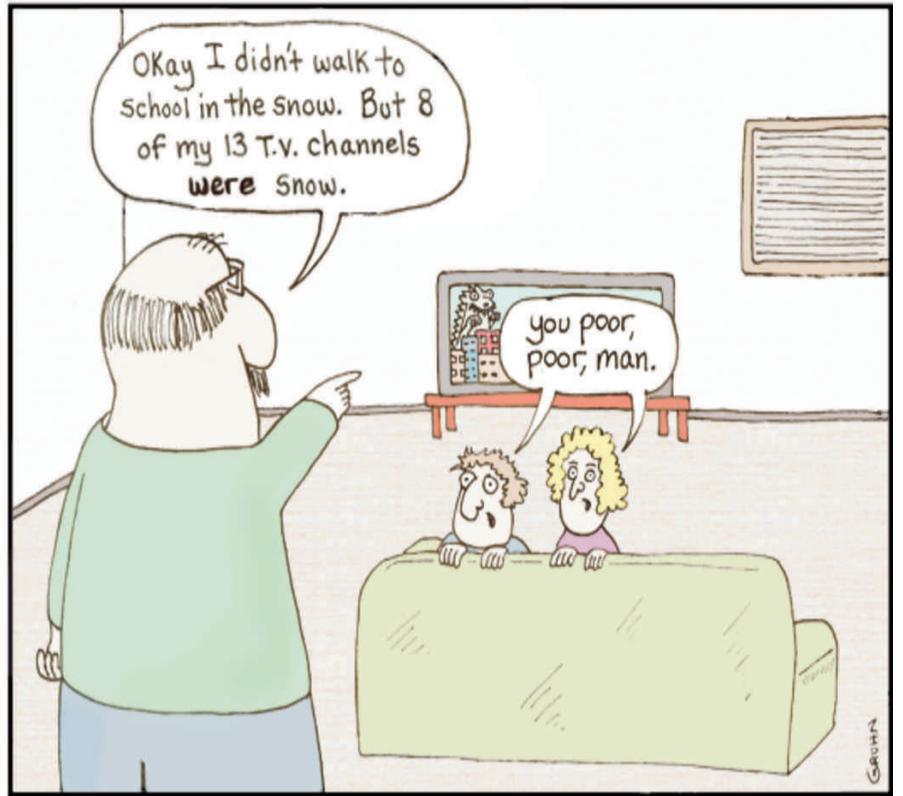

As someone who worked in the banking industry, I am focused on ensuring financial service professionals, frontline staff, and others who have frequent contact with seniors, know how to recognize and take action when it comes to instances of financial abuse. Our new strategy includes working with financial service providers to inform them on how to spot and respond to this type of abuse.

Over the years, Alberta's government has proudly made investments to support our community partner organizations that deal with elder abuse firsthand, and we continue to work alongside them in their efforts to prevent and stop elder abuse.

Elder abuse is a complex issue. It requires teamwork and collaboration across people and organizations. The more people shine a light on this issue, the easier it will be to spot it before it happens.

I invite all Albertans to read the new strategy, and consider ways they can make a difference in their own families and communities. Maybe you can start by just talking about it with the people around you. Seniors deserve to live life free of abuse and neglect – let's work together to make our province safer for them.

Reinventing Glenwood Park

Town of Edson Awarded Funding for Glenwood Park Upgrades

The Town of Edson is pleased to announce that, thanks in part to federal investment of $326,250, upgrades at Glenwood Park will be proceeding this year.

The intention is to reinvent the recreational infrastructure at Glenwood Park to create a vibrant, accessible, inclusive outdoor space. This includes replacement of the wooden arena boards at the outdoor rink and creating a new multi-use facility with a cement base that can be used year-round for skating, basketball, pickleball, outdoor markets, fitness classes, and more.

Project Benefits

The facility will provide new opportunity for outdoor activities for those of all ages and abilities, and replace the aging infrastructure in Glenwood Park. This new construction will also allow our Parks team to flood the rink earlier in the winter, thus, extending the outdoor skating experience.

Reinventing the community park will make the area more attractive to potential homeowners and has the potential to draw visitors to our community which provides other economic benefits. The Town of Edson believes it's critical to invest in our aging infrastructure, and create vibrant, inclusive spaces for residents of all ages, socio-economic backgrounds, and abilities.

About the Canada Community Revitalization Fund

The Canada Community Revitalization Fund (CCRF) is a two-year $500 million national infrastructure program to support communities across the country with projects that revitalize downtown cores and main streets, reinvent outdoor spaces, create green infrastructure and address accessibility of community space. PrairiesCan is administering the CCRF in Alberta.

“Our government continues to make investments through the Canada Community Revitalization Fund that help create modern gathering places for residents and visitors in cities and towns across the country, including here in rural Alberta. This investment to revitalize Glenwood Park will support the development of a year-round multi-sport facility, creating an accessible community space where everyone can gather and connect.”

- The Honourable Daniel Vandal, Minister for PrairiesCan.

“Public recreation spaces across Alberta are the heart of our communities, bringing people together, attracting visitors, and helping the local economy. Today's investment in Edson's Glenwood Park will make a difference by providing opportunities for residents and visitors to enjoy an upgraded recreational space while supporting local businesses and attractions.”

- The Honourable Randy Boissonnault, Minister of Tourism and Associate Minister of Finance

Strengthening Community

The Town of Edson is committed to recovering from the pandemic and continuing to thrive and grow into the future.

“These improvements to Glenwood Park will create some much needed recreational spaces on the west end of our community, giving more opportunities to residents in the Glenwood area and beyond. This will not only give the youth more options for recreation in that area year-round but will also provide a great outdoor space for markets, events, and other creative uses. We're looking forward to working with all user groups to make this a space the community can be proud of.”

- Kevin Zahara, Mayor, Town of Edson

Grant Connect Database

Grant Connect has funding for health, arts, recreation, social services, environmental projects, community and economic development, agriculture, non-profit development and a wide variety of other topics.

Yellowhead County now has access to a national database of grants available to organizations and societies serving a wide variety of purposes. Funding includes Federal grants, provincial grants, philanthropic and corporate funding opportunities.

Running a non-profit organization is rewarding but at times difficult work. Include a pandemic, which may have significantly impacted a group's fundraising ability, and it is especially challenging now. The Grant Connect database can help you find those dollars, or identify funding for your next big project.

How does it work? If you are with a non-profit, you can call the office to set up an appointment to search the database with a staff member. Simple as that. And if you can't make it into the office, we can help you out over Zoom or a phone call.

Call 780-325-3782 and ask to speak with FCSS about the Grant Connect program, or email wrobinson@yellowheadcounty.ab.ca to make an appointment.

West Yellowhead Triage Business Retention and Expansion Project

by Dana McArthur

During the Yellowhead County's Governance and Priorities Committee meeting on August 16, Council was given a presentation on the West Yellowhead Triage Business Retention and Expansion (BR&E) Project.

Nancy Robbins, General Manager of Community Futures West Yellowhead (CFWY) gave the presentation.

CFWY is proposing to undertake the Triage Business Retention and Expansion Project in the West Yellowhead communities of Jasper, Hinton, Edson, Grande Cache and Yellowhead County.

BR&E projects are a staple in municipal economic development and have been underway in the West Yellowhead region by CFWY for several years. BR&E aims to identify the supports and issues needed from a specific municipality to help local businesses succeed and plan for future development. Robbins defines BR&E as, "A strategic tool to go about and talk to businesses about what's happening right at a snapshot of time in their business."

BR&E projects are targeted to the active businesses in a community and are structured in that all businesses are asked the same questions to gather data to identify issues and concerns current in the business community.

A triage BR&E is used at times of change such as the change that we are currently experiencing in the economy as we struggle as communities to recover from the COVID-19 global pandemic. Robbins explained that, "It's called a Triage BR&E because you're really treating it as an emergency." CFWY has contracted consulting firm, Deloitte, to develop a solid and methodologically sound model for establishing BR&E priorities.

"We have discovered though, that we are at the point in doing this work that we really need to bring in a consultant. It's mainly because there are so many things happening in the business community so quickly right now at the closure of the pandemic. We have changes to regulations, challenges to the supply chain, a really high cost of inflation, especially in Alberta, and we are seeing that we can't stay on top of the issues that are happening," said Robbins.

Using Deloitte, CFWY will work to gather robust, local data that help municipalities and economic development organizations understand the opportunities for growth (called green flags) or challenges that may hinder growth or lead to decline (called red flags) for businesses in real time.

It is another way for them to find data to address the major concerns of a business community and plan for economic recovery in the future.

To complete the Yellowhead County portion of this project, CFWY is requesting both in kind and financial support from Yellowhead County. The financial support is for covering the cost of the Triage BR&E in the amount of $10,407.30 including tax. In kind support is requested in a designated staff member to work with CFWY throughout the project to ensure that the project deliverables are met.

The cost includes the following from Deloitte: Questionnaire design, community outreach planning, CATI programming, the indicated number of completed telephone interviews, data management and coding, data analysis including derived importance, identified red / green flag businesses, PowerPoint summary report and priority matrix.

Robbins thanked council for considering their proposal.

Councillor Dawn Mitchell stated that, "I would support the County's participation in this matter. Council's focus has shifted towards diversification and economic growth. This study supports council's focus, and I really like the price point and the fact you are including the ask for staff in kind to make sure you are on point and on track with the County's direction."

Council voted in favour of bringing the proposal to a future meeting of Council.

Rural Municipalities of Alberta (RMA) representatives, President Paul McLaughlin, District Director John Burrows, Executive Director Gerald Rhodes, Director of External Relations & Advocacy Tasha Blumenthal appeared before County Council on August 16. Their goal was to ask a few questions in order to serve the region better from both a business services and advocacy perspective.

Ice cream fun traveling across Yellowhead County

by Niki Luymes

Ice cream fun is traveling across Yellowhead County.

For each week in August and into September, Yellowhead County is sending out free games and ice cream to different parks and playgrounds across the county.

People of all ages are welcome to come out to enjoy the treats, while also interacting with the community. On August 15, the event landed in Peers at the Family Fun Playground. For an hour from 3 pm till 4 pm, members of the community were able to enjoy getting out and have some fun.

“The goal of events like this,” said Recreation Program Coordinator with Yellowhead County Nicole Parven, “is to get people using the county playgrounds and parks and help residents get to know one another, socialize, and maybe make some new connections.”

The Peers event saw a good turnout with upwards of 30 to 40 people making their way to the ice cream cooler on site. To go with the cool treats, there were also multiple lawn games available. Croquet and lawn golf proved especially popular.

The events are put together by the Yellowhead

County Parks and Rec Department. The first of these ice cream socials took place on August 12 in Brule from 1 to 2 pm and had a turnout of close to 50 people.

Future locations include Robb on August 23 from 1-2 pm, Evansburg in September on the 1 from 1-2 pm, Wildwood on September 1 from 3-4 pm, and finally Marlboro on September 2 from 1-2 pm. All Ice Cream Socials are weather dependant, so keep an eye on the skies and the schedule to make it to the next one happening near you.

1950s Art in the Park held at RCMP Centennial Park

by Niki Luymes

Crowds gathered in RCMP Centennial Park August 13 to enjoy a blast from the past.

This month's Art in the Park was an epic 1950s Rock and Roll spectacular. The event ran from 1 pm to 5 pm. As always, there was fun for all ages.

Kids enjoyed free games, balloon sculptures, and bouncy castles while parents enjoyed the artisan market, antique cars, and in person Elvis impersonator Jayden Pilon from Edmonton.

"This was the best turnout yet for one of these events," said Diana Inscho, Community Development Coordinator for the Town of Edson. "I think the Elvis impersonator was a big draw for people."

Along with the impersonator, crowds also got to enjoy music from local artist Jesse Bedard.

To beat the heat of the day free freezies were available for all in attendance. There was also a photo booth set up so participants could remember the fun that was had.

As with all Art in the Park events, costumes and dressing up was encouraged —this time in 1950s fashion. Although not many did, there were prizes for those who went the extra mile. All the activities at the Art in the Park events are provided for free by the Town of Edson and FCSS.

These events have become a staple of the Edson community. The fourth and final event for the year will be on September 3.

The theme for the final event is Wop May 1919 Country Fair. This event will feature an artisan market and bench show in partnership with the Edson & District Historical Society.

For details on how to enter the bench show check out the Town of Edson website. The event also coincides with Alberta Day and will have music and food trucks on hand to add to the celebration.

Remember that dressing up is optional, but rewarding.

Rachel's Party Balloons offered a 50s twist at Edson's Art in the Park event at the RCMP Centennial Park.

Elvis impersonator Jayden Pilon during 1950s Art in the Park event held August 13 in Edson.

Great local entertainment and antique cars were also a part of the 1950s Art in the Park event held August 13 in Edson.

New breakthrough in blackleg research

A new breakthrough by AAFC research scientists is helping producers get a leg up on blackleg.

Blackleg is a severe fungal disease of canola plants and, with canola generating about one-quarter of all farm crop receipts in Canada, it is a serious threat for producers. But to help growers better manage blackleg and protect their crops, we must first have a good understanding of the pathogen that causes the disease.

Luckily, AAFC researchers are on the case. Led by AAFC's Dr. Fengqun Yu, a team of Saskatoon-based scientists achieved a major milestone in the battle against blackleg, by completing the first large scale resequencing of the blackleg pathogen in the world. They have used this resequencing to get a much clearer picture of Canada's unique strains than ever before.

Armed with this knowledge, researchers can develop modern disease-resistant cultivars, better predict emerging adaptations of the pathogen and discover new solutions to help growers protect their crops from this serious disease – now and well into the future.
